

Dakota Micro, Inc., manufacturers of the AgCam camera system, is proud to announce the arrival of our newest product line. The OverView camera system is the final component that allows us to offer our customers a complete camera lineup.

The AgCam was designed as the top of the line, quality product to survive rugged, wet and just plain gruesome environments. The OverView fills the gap, offering customers a well built camera system at a lower cost. The addition of this system allows Dakota Micro to fill the needs of both quality and price point.

As many already know, DM is an American company that shares the values of American farmers and ranchers. Dakota Micro essentially created the demand for cameras in the agricultural industry and we pride ourselves on being the leaders in industrial camera technology, offering you products that are more reliable, more capable and in the end, more profitable to you, our customers. We strive to always build the best product, providing the best support, and knowing customer demands and needs better than any other company in this market.

Starting at an MSRP of just $322, the OverView will boast a high color contrast ratio monitor with bright LED backlighting, watertight cameras, forward/mirror image selection, high intensity night vision, choice of standard or quad display, and an 18 month warranty. Customers will be able to upgrade their systems easily to wireless without having to buy their equipment all over again. The OverView will also feature the same connectors as the currently available low cost systems.

As a small token of our appreciation of our American Service Men and Women who defend our freedom to be the best we can be every day of our lives, we have decided to donate a portion of profits from the OverView camera system to a program called AnySoldier. Please to check out their website to see what it's all about: www.anysoldier.com.

We invite you all to visit our newest website, dedicated to proving just how tough our flagship camera system, the AgCam, really is. CanWeBreakIt.com is brought to you by Dakota Micro, Inc. Proudly bringing you products with more reliability, more capability and more profitability.
